Welcome to the Equalities Resource Hub, your go-to destination for a wide array of best practice resources on gender and equalities policy, programming and advocacy. This website brings together a range of different global and regional resources with a common goal, creating a safer, more equitable and prosperous world where everyone can achieve their potential, enjoy their rights and live free from violence and discrimination.

Dive into a toolbox of practical guidance, policy insights and research aimed at fostering the meaningful inclusion and empowerment of: women and girls, LGBT+ people, people with disabilities, older people, ethnic minorities and other marginalized or left behind groups. So whether you seek a guide on preventing gender based violence, the latest evidence on climate resilience and disability inclusion, or key facts about women's economic empowerment, this hub is designed with you in mind.

Organised by themes like Advancing equalities, Ending violence, Economic empowerment, Inclusive politics, governance and accountability, and more. Navigating through the hub is intuitive and insightful. You can also explore resources based on specific populations, acknowledging how intersecting identities can impact marginalisation and exclusion.

The Equalities Resource Hub is an online catalogue for anyone championing gender equality and social inclusion. Whether you're in government, a civil society organisation, an international development organisation, a research institute, or simply curious about gender and equalities, the Resource Hub welcomes you.

Ensuring accessibility and inclusivity is at the forefront of our design now and in the future. We have highlighted where resources are available in multiple languages and accessible formats such as Easy Reads. The hub will continually expand its resources and enhance user experiences.

So if you'd like to share your feedback, then we'd love to hear from you.

The Equalities Resource Hub is part of the UK Aid funded Promoting Equalities Regional Program, an initiative led by Plan International UK Social Development Direct, SightSavers, in partnership with the UK's Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office. Together we are striving for global and regional progress on equality and inclusion for all.
